TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Reference for Nirojan Srikandarajah

During 2013 Nirojan Srikandarajah was part of a team of four students from Aalborg University who accepted the voluntary task of producing a Web app to support the OzCHI 2013 conference in Adelaide, Australia. This team did a fantastic job. With very little time available, they mastered the technical system on which this app was to be built, overcame various problems to create the desired behaviour of the system, and produced a visual design that was attractive, elegant and functional. Nirojan played a particularly influential and creative role in producing the graphic design for the app. On top of that, the team attended the three days of the conference to make sure that all ran well and to interview attendees about the acceptance of the Web app. This whole venture was an outstanding success and I am very grateful to Nirojan and his team for their dedication to this task. They were delightful to work with, always bringing cheerful smiles to our interactions and a professional enthusiasm and diligence to the task.

I confidently recommend Nirojan and each member of this team for further work of this nature.

Yours sincerely
